

MATTED DOG RELEASE FORM

Under the Animal welfare act of 2006 (updated 2010), section 5 -
“all animals are to be protected from pain, injury, suffering and disease.”

Matted (tightly tangled &/or knotted) coats can cause a variety of skin & health problems. Matted fur does not allow for air circulation to the skin, causing hot spots, bacterial and fungal infections. Fleas, ticks, maggots and other parasites may be lurking in the coat causing further skin infections. Stickers, burrs and other objects may be tangled in the coat and often imbedded or held against the skin causing pain, irritation and/or infection.

Matted fur also pulls and binds the skin, causing pain to your pet when they move or lay down. The skin underneath is often raw and inflamed. Matted coats will not dry properly and can lead to rotting fur and skin. Due to matting, pets’ hair may need to be shaved extremely short to the skin and may show signs of skin irritation and sores due to matting, wet undercoat and dirty coat. Pets that have not been groomed often enough usually result in long, stressful, or painful grooming sessions. Some dogs never recover from that experience.

It is the goal of Lick n Slick to make your pet's grooming experience as stress free as possible. Therefore Lick n Slick refuses to de-mat coats that have become matted & tangled when doing so may cause stress, pain, injury &/or suffering. Lick n Slick will always strive to act in the animals best interest & remove matted & tangled coats in the most humane manner possible.

Due to the condition of _____’s (Pet’s Name) coat, Lick n Slick has determined that the only humane action that can be taken at this time is a shortie/shave down. This is a short clip, removing all the matting. It is unfeasible to de-mat/brush out a coat in this condition and would cause excessive pain and suffering to attempt to do so.

Lick n Slick will be happy to show you how to care for your pet's coat for the future, however, due to the stress and pain it will undoubtedly cause your pet this is not an option at this time.

There is a chance that your pet's skin will become more irritated during the clipping process. We recommend using a medicated shampoo to help sooth any irritation that may occur. Due to the mats being tight against the skin, the only way of removing them is to use a short blade to clip between skin and mats He/she may be nicked and or cut because of the tightness of the matting & the need to work so closely to the skin to remove the coat. In the case of some dogs, protection from the sun/cold may be required after clipping for as long as it takes for the coat to re-grow to a protective length.

All possible care will be taken, but the possibility of injury exists and by signing this form & leaving your pet for grooming you acknowledge you are aware of the condition of your pets coat, the possible pre-existing issues and the risk of clipping a matted coat as stated above and you give Lick n Slick permission to proceed.

Lick n Slick is not responsible for injury’s sustained due to the condition of your pets coat.
